

News

from the

National Western

For Immediate Release:     January 23, 2008

Contact:           Kati Anderson
(303) 299-5522

EBY CATTLE EARN TOP AWARDS

DENVER – Eby Ranch of Emporia, Kans., earned two national champion titles during the Balancer show at the 2008 National Western Stock Show in Denver last week.

Champion junior bull EBY Great Western Hauler 028S, owned by Don Eby of Emporia, earned the title of national champion Balancer bull. And, champion senior heifer calf EBY Miss Western 6215S, owned by Jessica Clodfelter of West Salem, Ill., was named reserve national champion Balancer female.

More than 80 Balancers exhibited at the National Western Stock Show during the National Balancer Show Jan. 14. Balancer cattle are a hybrid cross between Gelbvieh and Angus.

The 2008 National Western Stock Show runs January 12-27. The show, known as “The Super Bowl of Cattle Shows,” hosts 18 breeds of cattle and hosts more than 7,000 head of cattle annually. For more information on the National Western Stock Show, please visit our website at NationalWestern.com.

Company Background -

Located in Emporia, Kansas, Eby Cattle is a full service Seedstock producer offering a combination of proven Angus genetics and the longevity and reproductive efficiency of the Gelbvieh resulting in Balancers®, the Commercial industry’s answer to the benefits of heterosis without compromising end-product merit. Eby Cattle herds are made up of females from some of the most influential Angus and Gelbvieh genetics in the U.S. Customers can buy from Eby Cattle bulls, females, and heifers that will give them the value added performance genetics and choice options to improve their herds.

---

---